

MAGNETIC CONVEYORS

The conveyance of chips loaded into the conveyor is performed by the attraction of magnets running underneath a stainless steel layer.

FEATURES

- Ideal for the conveyance of dusts and small chips from small machine tooling.
- Advised for the separation process of chip from coolants.
- Magnet size and attraction is calculated according to specific needs and demand from plant dimensions.
- Conveyor shape can be custom sized with slopes or straight design.